Board Certified Divorce Coach

Divorce Coaching is a dispute resolution process, defined as a flexible, goal-oriented process designed to support, motivate, and guide people going through divorce to help them make the best possible decisions for their future, based on their particular interests, needs, and concerns.

Divorce coaching is a dispute resolution process—both practical and transformative -designed to help your client to:

- Overcome the overwhelm of divorce;
- Have more confidence in their ability to handle ALL phases of divorce, from pre to post-divorce and everything in between;
- Develop clearer thinking about big and small decisions they make every day; and
- Avoid the biggest mistakes in divorce.

The Four Cornerstones of the CDC Certified Divorce Coach Training and Certification

A Professional Standard: Models and best practices, ethics, and professional boundaries.

Personal Excellence: Integrity, presence, and ongoing growth and development.

Foundation of Trust: Building relationships, discovery process, trusting the process, and taking the high road.

Generosity of Spirit:

Delivering more than you expect, royalty-free materials, strategy consultations, celebrating success.

CDC Certified Divorce Coach® A Profession

We have approached this as any other true Profession:

- An activity that requires formal training;
- A set of standards to practice the activity- Standards of Ethics and Professional Responsibility;
- A community or association of individuals who are engaged in the activity to learn and share to strengthen the practice or activity;
- A sense of social responsibility and a duty to serve the needs of others;
- A commitment to continued education in the field of practice; and
- Some form of licensing and community policing or sanctioning of persons who stray from the ethics and professional responsibility.

Who Should Consider Becoming a Certified Divorce Coach?

- If you are already a divorce professional and want to expand the scope of services offered to clients.
- If you already have a coaching practice and want to develop a specialty area of coaching to stand out from the crowd.
- If you have been through divorce yourself and want to share your learning with others and develop a fulfilling new profession.

Family Attorneys and Mediators, Client Relationship Managers and Paralegals, Mental Health Professionals, Certified Coaches, and other Professionals whose lives have been impacted by divorce.

What Makes Divorce Coaching Different from Other Coaching?

Multiple areas of change: relationships-family, friends, in-laws, grandparents, children, relationships as a couple, community engagement, housing, healthcare, finances, education, childcare, career-business, health and wellbeing, identity, and assuming new roles, to name a few!

Intensity of Emotions: denial, resistance, anger, numbness, isolation, aloneness, shame, getting even, getting out, hopelessness, resignation, and throwing in the towel.

A Legal Process: The client is involved in a legal process with its own language and intricacies, stresses and difficulties. Understanding the boundaries between divorce coaching and other divorce professionals is important in gaining credibility and building referral partners.

The Art, Science, Business, and Profession of Personal Divorce Coaching

- Impacting individuals and families today and into the next generation.
- Expanding your ability to work with clients in high stress situations like divorce!
- Becoming a trusted thinking partner in all phases of the divorce process.

In our program you will develop the confidence, the know-how, and a toolkit for working with clients to help them make the best possible decisions for their future. Clients become clearer thinkers, better communicators, and are better organized to understand their options and trade-offs. This has an immediate impact on everyone with whom they engage. Including you! You can build an effective divorce coaching practice or create a new and robust stream of income in your existing practice.
